TAYLORS, S.C. ( Nov. 4, 2021) – South Carolina Gov. Henry McMaster, along with South Carolina Public Charter School District Superintendent Chris Neeley visited GMC on Wednesday, Nov. 4. They spent time with several members of the senior class and were very impressed with the Senior Project, Internship, and Apprenticeship Program. Members of the governor’s education team also attended the visit along with staff and administration from Greer Middle College and the S.C. Public Charter School District.

“We are very thankful for the support of charter schools from our Governor,” said Jimmy Armstrong, principal of Greer Middle College. I could not be prouder of our senior students that interacted with the Governor and the way they were able to share their experiences of completing our capstone project.”

“We greatly appreciate Gov. Henry McMaster’s steadfast support of public charter schools and the students and families for which they serve across our state,” said Chris Neeley, superintendent of the S.C. Public Charter School District. “Gov. McMaster’s advocacy for charter schools during his time in office has ensured access to an innovative, high-quality educational experience as the demand for school choice has risen. With his support, we can meet this demand.”
